

LETTER FROM CAMP OF TROOP B ON THE BORDER

That the National guardsmen, including Troop B of Ogden, now stationed on the Mexican border, are due for an extended term of service under orders from the United States war department, is inferred in a recent letter to the Standard, from Second Lieutenant Floyd A. Smith, First Utah Cavalry. Lieutenant Smith states that the troops and a longer designated by the states from which they were mustered but have been merged into a broader organization, under the name of the National guardsmen of the United States, and that each troop is to be recruited to war strength. In regard to the question, the lieutenant says the Ogden boys are desirous of having Troop B, which needs about 30 members to bring it up to the required strength, formed entirely of Ogden men.

The letter also includes interesting reference to the pleasures and dangers of camp life and is here reproduced in full:

"Headquarters Troop B, Nogales, Arizona, July 22, 1916.

"Editor Standard:—Inasmuch as the officer of the day does not go out to drill, and as I happen to be that individual, I shall take advantage of the opportunity to send you a few lines about the soldier boys.

"The Second Utah squadron arrived in camp Sunday night, July 16, seemingly in the best of spirits and health. If the noise they made could be used as a criterion, the officers and most of the men of the First squadron were at the station to bid the new arrivals welcome. Owing to their late arrival, they slept on the train that night, starting for camp early the next morning. By noon all tents were pitched, equipment was put away and the boys had a chance to take matters easier for the remainder of the day. On the trip down at San Bernardino, Cal., Private Leonard Peterson was taken from the train and put in the hospital there with both legs paralyzed, so the next day orders came from division headquarters, putting the Second squadron and the Field Hospital Corps which accompanied it, in quarantine. Up to the present time, the quarantine has not been removed, but its removal was expected at any time. It is now definitely known that the man did not have infantile paralysis, as was at first feared, and at last reports, he was improving rapidly.

"Wednesday, the 19th, the First Squadron was given the third inoculation for typhoid. This completed the operation, much to the delight of everybody, as those sore arms were becoming rather obnoxious. These three vaccinations come ten days apart. We drill every day but Saturday and Sunday. Saturday is inspection day and Sunday, after policing of camp and quarters, all men except the guard are off for the day. The drill for the past week has consisted of advance and flank guard, marching, troop and platoon drill, close order, extended order and instruction in stables, which includes the care and grooming of the horse and the proper care of all horse equipment and other leather. Next week field problems start. This means longer hours, but as all men are rapidly becoming acclimated, they are not to be dreaded.

"On Monday afternoon, July 24th, there will be no drill. A program of sports and a ball game between the two squadrons has been arranged. The athletic events are a tug-of-war between the two squadrons, twenty men from each; a tent pitching contest, between troops—eight men from a troop, these teams to consist of different men—a "centipede" race between troops, eight men from a troop. In this race the eight men straddle a ridge pole and run over a specified course.

"This country seems to be alive with tarantulas, scorpions, centipedes and most every other poisonous insect to be found within the United States. The tarantula seem to be in the majority, although the others are numerous enough to occasionally disturb the peace of mind of any law-abiding American citizen. Scarcely a night passes that some man does not find a tarantula or a scorpion in or on his bed. And they certainly are some bed fellows; big black hairy spiders, in some cases as large as the palm of a man's hand. One of the pastimes of the soldiers is to get a centipede and a tarantula together; they always fight to the death. On one occasion that I know of, a tarantula bit a full grown centipede in two places at the first attack. Sometimes the centipede comes out winner, but generally the victory goes to the spider. A couple of men have been quite seriously bitten, but beyond a severe swelling of the flesh around the bite and a deathly sickness for a short time, they have pulled through without trouble.

"As it is quite likely the troops will be recruited to full war strength within a short time, it is the wish of all present members of Troop B that the new members be Ogden men only. This tends toward greater geniality. This tends toward the line of duty and more cohesion in the line of duty and above all makes it an Ogden troop. Our official designation now is "Troop B, First Utah Cavalry, National Guard of the United States."

"Hoping to hear of at least a train-load of recruits headed in this direction within a few days and assuring each and every man of a warm reception and an interesting time after his arrival, I remain respectfully yours,

(Signed) FLOYD A. SMITH,
Second Lieut. First Utah Cavalry, N. G., U. S."

ROBBED ON RETURNING FROM MEXICAN BORDER

Returning, safe and sound, from a region alive with desperate outlaws, to what he considered, the peace and quiet of home, only to have an illustration of the reverse of conditions, Rudolph Maltzer, 119 Twenty-second street, who has just returned from Nogales, Arizona, where he has been a member of the Utah cavalry, was "sand-bagged" and relieved of his gold watch and $60 on Twenty-third street, between Washington and Adams avenues, last night shortly before 9 o'clock.

Maltzer notified the police and an investigation was commenced. The bandits were described as a tall and short man.

The returned soldier, who is an instructor in printing at the Utah School for the Deaf and Blind, says that he was standing on the corner of Twenty-third and Washington, waiting for a car going east. As he had just missed one car he decided to walk and proceeded up the hill. He had gone only about fifteen feet when attention was attracted by the screaming of two women. Running to the rescue, two men jumped from concealment and struck him behind the ear with such force that he toppled over on the sidewalk. His assailants then took his money and watch and, ramming a revolver in front of his face, told him if he made an outcry he would get shot.

Maltzer's opinion is that the "fair ones" who gave the signal of distress were co-workers of his attackers.

GENERAL NAFARRAT RESIGNS FROM ARMY

Brownsville, Texas, Aug. 2.—General E. P. Nafarrat recently removed by First Chief Carranza as military governor of the state of Tamaulipas, has resigned from the Mexican army, according to seemingly reliable reports in Matamoros. So far as is known here he has made no attempt to take his army from the de facto service.

Removal of Nafarrat from the Tamaulipas command, it was stated in Matamoros, was due directly to representations from the American government as to his alleged anti-American activities while in command at Tampico and in the oil fields region of that district.

WILSON ADHERES TO OLD STATUS

President Still Insists Woman Suffrage Is Question for States to Settle.

Washington, Aug. 2.—President Wilson has not changed his position that the woman suffrage question should be dealt with by the states, it was announced today at the White House. The statement was brought forth by Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee, that he favored an amendment to the federal constitution giving the vote to women.

A delegation of suffragists saw the president yesterday and afterward indicated they believed he would make a new statement on the question before the convention of the National Woman Suffrage association in September. At that time the policy to be pursued in the presidential campaign will be determined by the National Suffrage association.

Secretary Tumulty discussed the question with the president and afterwards announced Mr. Wilson's position on the subject was unchanged. This position, as outlined several times to suffrage delegations within the last three years, was that while he favors votes for women, he is opposed to federal action.

The president voted for woman suffrage in New Jersey last year. It was indicated that today's action was final.

BOY DROWNS WHILE SWIMMING.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Aug. 1.—The nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell of Shelley was drowned Sunday afternoon while swimming in the spillway from the dam across Snake river. Other boys gave the alarm and the body was recovered, but life was extinct.
